Report on Children's Day Celebration at OCER

Report on Children's Day Celebration

Oriental College of Education and Research, Andheri

Date: 14th November

Time: 1:00 pm onwards

Introduction

Children's Day is celebrated across India on 14th November to honour the birth anniversary of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, who believed that children are the foundation of a strong nation. To commemorate this special day, the Oriental College of Education and Research, Andheri, organized a vibrant and meaningful celebration for the students.

Objectives of the Programme

- To highlight the significance of Children's Day and its historical importance.
- To create awareness about child rights and the importance of protecting every child.
- To provide a platform for students to showcase their talents through creative performances.
- To encourage teamwork, participation, and self-expression among students.
- To promote the message "Save Child, Every Child is Important."

Description of the Event

The celebration commenced at 1:00 pm with a warm welcome to all the participants and attendees. Students began the programme by presenting the significance of Children's Day, explaining the contributions of Jawaharlal Nehru and emphasizing the importance of nurturing young minds.

A short documentary was screened, focusing on child rights, child safety, and the need to protect and support children in society. The film effectively conveyed the message that every child is valuable and deserves care, education, and opportunities.

This was followed by a thought-provoking skit, performed by the students, highlighting issues related to child protection and the importance of giving children a safe and supportive environment. The skit was powerful and emotionally engaging.

Next, the audience enjoyed a dance combo performance centred on the theme “Save Child – Every Child is Important.” The energetic choreography and expressive movements helped reinforce the message in a creative and inspiring manner.

To add excitement and joy, the event included various fun games, where students actively participated and enjoyed themselves. The games created a lively atmosphere and fostered teamwork and bonding among the participants.

Conclusion

The Children’s Day celebration at Oriental College of Education and Research, Andheri, was both informative and enjoyable. Through performances, documentary screenings, and engaging activities, the students successfully conveyed the message of child protection and the value of every child. The event not only celebrated childhood but also created awareness and encouraged responsibility toward safeguarding the rights of children. Overall, the programme was meaningful, impactful, and memorable for everyone involved.
